Notes From Lansing

By Lou Cramton
State Representative (103rd)

ANTI-WOMANHOOD VOTE — The girls in our office were ready to picket me when I got off the floor and the best secretary a man was ever lucky enough to have was quick to hit me with THE question.

I had just come off the Floor of the House, where among other things we had had a measure calling for equal employment treatment for women. It had passed with only two dissenting votes. Mine was one of those two "out-of-step" No votes.

"Why?" — That was one of the nicer questions the girls shot at me.

Why, indeed! The bill was offered as a guarantee of equal pay for equal work. I believe in that. I have long before the sometimes ridiculous Women's Libbers raised their discarded bras as battle banners.

But we have all the laws needed to guarantee equal rights for individuals now — regardless of race, creed, sex. And our law books are cluttered up enough now with unnecessary duplications and phonies like that one without adding more. We need better enforcement — not more laws. Further: we have much more to do down in Lansing — much more pressing matters (the budget, for one thing, and the tax restructuring effort that will give genuine property tax relief for another) than fake vote-getters to take up time on.

I'll admit it did not take much time. It zipped through in nothing flat — before this green freshman could grab a microphone and point out that women's rights were already guaranteed — and ask who was trying to kid who — or whom.

If you will excuse me now — I have to go buy flowers for the secretaries so they'll let me out of the dog house and back into my office.

Tom Koernke Vice Presidential Candidate for Mich. Republicans

Centennial Meet June 21

The Grayling Area Centennial, Inc., committee will hold an organizational meeting on Monday, June 21, at the Crawford County Building at 8 p.m.

On Wednesday, June 23, there will be a meeting at 8 p.m. in the same room of the county building to meet with a representative of Rogers Co., to present plans for the Grayling Area Centennial.

Tom Koernke, 22, of Lovells today announced his candidacy for the position of Third Vice President of the Michigan Republican Party, it was revealed by Alan E. Beatty, Crawford County Republican Chairman.

The Michigan Republican Party, recognizing the need to relate to young voters, has created this position which will be filled by a youth under 25 years of age. Election will take place in Cadillac on June 26. Koernke is one of ten candidates for the position.

Tom is a law student at the University of Michigan and has been active in politics since high school. He organized the Crawford County Teen Age Republicans while attending Frederic High School. He graduated with honors from Michigan State University where he was elected President of his graduating class. In 1970 he served as Youth Director of the Michigan for Milliken campaign. He is presently working as an Assistant to State Representative Lou Cramton.

In commenting on Tom Koernke's candidacy, Chairman Beatty stated, "Tom is well known among Michigan Republicans, he's worked very hard campaigning throughout the state. Tom is the type of youth we need to encourage in politics today. I feel he has an excellent chance of being elected."

Zoning Board Can Prevent Business Failure

By Willard Bosserman
County Extension Director

The question often times comes up at a zoning board meeting whether they should consider the possibility of failure of business when a request is made for rezoning. I believe it is their responsibility to at least consider possible failure.

When the planning commission and zoning board draw the land use plan they grouped areas where they thought businesses would have the best chance to be successful. They zoned blocks of commercial to avoid stranding out commercial along a busy highway. There is no more effective way to turn a highway into a busy city street than to allow commercial establishments all up and down the highway. The highway department had this problem around the cities every time they put in a belt line until the limited highway came into being.

Another reason for grouping commercial is that one business can be complementary to another. It makes a one stop shopping trip possible. If businesses are strung out up and down every road a person can spend a lot of time just doing the Saturday shopping.

Multiple egress and ingress along a highway is dangerous.

Grouping of commercial with a service road or common parking lot is done to cut down the number of driveways coming off a highway. Some good examples of shopping plazas where ingress and egress are limited is the Spartan Plaza in Houghton Lake, Pinky's Shopping center at the Heights and the Shopping Plaza in Grayling.

Some areas are zoned residential because they are not good locations for a commercial establishment. Maybe it is a little used road or a cut off road that no longer is a main artery for traffic.

The planning commissions and zoning boards are not doing a person a favor by rezoning a piece of property for business when the location and type of business doesn't have a chance of survival from the start. If it is an area where there are already too many restaurants, another one could actually cause them all to fail.

There is nothing worse for a community than a whole group of businesses locked up with a for sale sign on them.

So, I believe the local planners do have to consider the success potential of a business before they change the land use plan to rezone a piece of land to commercial.

Grayling Holds 2nd Seasonal Trapshoot

The Registered Trapshoot held Sunday, June 13, 1971 on the Sportsman's Club fields was attended by 20 shooters that shot a total of 4,200 targets during the course of the day.

Winners were: 16-yards, Phil Miller, Grayling with a total of 98 x 100; Handicap, Gordon Parks, Luzerne with a 93 x 100; Doubles, Robert Wood, Gaylord with a 45 x 50. The women's high was taken by Helen M. Wells from Caro, Mich. with a 16-yard score of 96 and a handicap score of 91. It appears that the sport of trap shooting is finding more and more enthusiasts among the women, as we have more women competing at every shoot that the Club holds.

The next Registered Trapshoot will be the "4th Annual Fred Bear Classic" to be held on July 24th and 25th. This shoot is considered the largest of its kind in the North and we would like to invite any shooter that would like to participate.

The marriage vows of Nancy Marie McCotter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris H. McCotter of Chevy Chase, D.C. and Kerrigan George Clough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clough, Sr. of Grayling were exchanged on June 12. The wedding took place at All Saints Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase Circle at 11 o'clock in the morning with Doctor Edward Berger officiating.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of white embroidered organza with white venise lace bands forming a bib effect and circling the full skirt, waist and cuffs of the soft shirt sleeves. The gown flowed into a chapel length train. A headpiece of crisp white lace and seed pearls framed her face with a silk illusion veil. A small basket of white daisies and a cloud of dainty baby's breath completed the ensemble.

The matron of honor, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Bruce McCotter, wore a splashy multi-colored print peasant dress charmingly decorated with ribbons of red and royal blue and a large natural color leghorn picture hat decorated with matching ribbons and flowers to match the dress. She carried a basket of daisies, miniature red roses, blue corn flowers and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids, Miss Harlee

Drake of Chevy Chase, Miss Mary Plow of Michigan and Miss Michelle Clough of Grayling all wore matching printed peasant dresses, picture hats, and carried baskets of white and yellow daisies and baby's breath.

The groom's brother, Arthur Clough, Jr. of Grayling was the best man. Groomsmen were Mark Nelson of Grayling, Bruce McCotter, the bride's brother, of Chicago, and Bill Boetcher of Lewiston. Harry Sayers of Caro, David Cereska of Muskegon, Gary Magdalena of Harper Woods, and Patrick Hayes of Owosso were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McCotter wore an ankle length dress with a pink crepe bodice and a soft print silk organza skirt ending in a large ruffle. She wore white gloves and carried a pink beaded purse with a pink cymbidium orchid attached.

Mrs. Clough, mother of the groom chose a peach crepe ensemble with white accessories and carried a peach cymbidium orchid.

The grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Edward Frazier, was attired in a pink and white embroidered organza dress, white accessories, and carried pink rosebuds.

The bride chose a blue and white hot pants and skirt outfit, white boots and purse for her going away costume and carried a nosegay of daisies and baby's breath. The couple left for a motor trip to Florida and to fly to the Islands after a reception at the Columbia Country Club in Chevy Chase, Md.

The evening prior to the wedding, the groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Governor's House, Bethesda, Md. for the wedding party and guests.

Mother of the bride

In a few minutes she will be walking down the aisle. Bruce will be at the altar to meet her, and when they walk out of the church, they will be man and wife.

Even though we have been planning the wedding for weeks, it is hard to believe the time is really here. It seems like only yesterday — though actually it was twenty years ago — that our little girl was christened right in this same church.

What an all-important part of our lives this church has been! I have turned to it both in times of joy and times of sorrow. So has our daughter.

Now, as I slip into my place in the first pew on the left side of the aisle, it is with the wonderful feeling that this church is a part of her, too, and that its teachings will stay with her forever. I could not ask for more.

An Interesting Experiment

The philosophy of taking "from each according to his ability," and giving "to each according to his need" sounds humane and has had a substantial following among socialist, communist and idealistic young.

A New York high school teacher conducted an interesting experiment with his students. He suggested to them that they take away 20 grade points from those who made a grade of 95 on a test, giving them to those who made only 55 on the same test. This way, both would receive a passing mark. The brighter or more diligent students would be contributing in accordance with their ability, while the less intelligent — or less diligent — students would receive in accordance with their need. The instructor then speculated with his students as to the probable results if he were to actually apply this socialist-communist philosophy. The first result would be that the highly productive students would lose the incentive to work for higher grades. The second result would be that the less productive students would be relieved of any obligation to study or to produce. The teacher observed that, "At that point, in order for anyone to survive, the 'authority' would have no alternative but to begin a system of compulsory labor and punishments against even the low producers."

This is precisely what happens in an entire society when productive incentive is taxed to death and the nonproducers ride on the backs of the producers.

Belton, Texas Journal: "A wise suggestion has been made to move the Paris peace talks to the DMZ in Viet Nam. The advantages would be obvious. If you were stationed in Paris, with all expenses paid, would you be in a hurry? On the other hand, if the negotiators from both sides were sitting out there in the middle of things, somehow the talks would be accelerated. Not everything could be settled at once, but it is a safe guess that a cease-fire could be arranged rather promptly."

Tired of carry-outs?

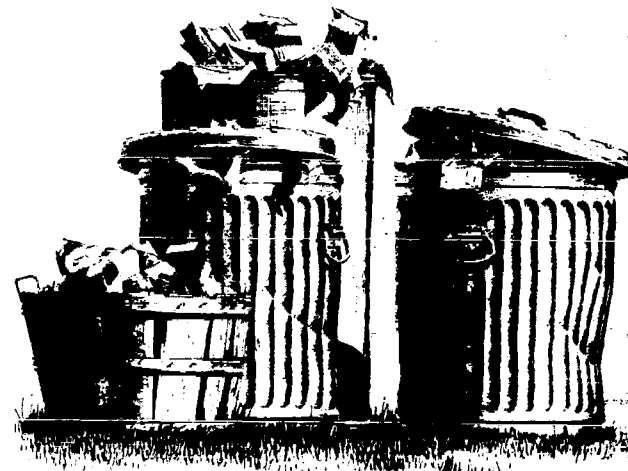

Here's what you need—a Gas incinerator. It takes all the bother out of garbage and trash disposal. And it does it without smoke, odor, noise or polluting the air you breathe.

A Gas incinerator gobbles up all the combustible things you wouldn't dare put in a garbage disposal and can't burn outside. It makes short work of bones, boxes and boots—in fact anything that's combustible. And it does the job conveniently and completely.

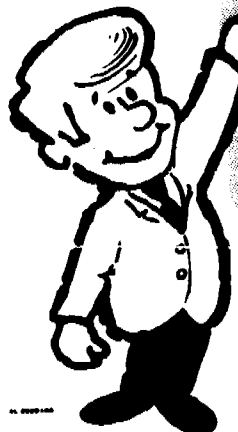

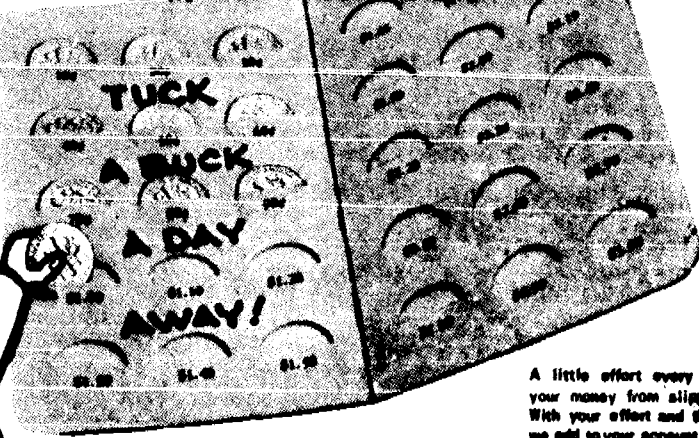

So put an end to your carry-out service. Promise yourself you'll see your appliance dealer about having a Gas incinerator installed in your home. Or, visit your Michigan Consolidated Gas Company showroom for all the particulars. And remember, there's more than enough Gas for all your appliances.

MOOSE CALL

A lot has been happening since the last column, and Elmer Neal relegated his writing capabilities to two personalities that he considers his proteges. Believe me, Elmer, the world of literature misses you.

To bring you folks up to date, the new officers of the Moose Lodge 1162 of Grayling are as follows: Gov., Jerry Welch; Jr. Gov., Bud Taylor; Prelate, Dale Kenyon; Sec., Alfred Hanson; Treas., William Fitzgerald; Trustees, Richard Lippard, George Warren, Thomas Gallagher; Club manager, William Sunday.

The last couple of weekends have been real nice with a very promising summer coming up. Also, there is in the process of being planned, a couple of outings, such as a canoe trip on our mighty AuSable River ending with a barbeque at our club manager's house. If you can think of things that the family would enjoy, the club would appreciate any suggestions. More about this at the next writing.

Free Tacos! Friday night, the 18th of June at 8:00 p.m. for as long as they last. So come on along all members, bring a friend and your appetite.

A canoe trip is in the planning stages so come along to the meeting to make sure that we can set a date that is convenient to all. It will end with a barbeque, so what more could you ask for than good food, good friends, and good conversation?

The untested champs of the Moose Ping Pong League is thinking of challenging the American Legion players. All that is needed is one table, one net, four paddles, and one little ball and the champs are ready. Anyone that's interested is most welcome to come along and add their talents.

We were the hosts of the other Moose Lodges in our area last Saturday evening. There were representatives from the Ludington Lodge 637, Cadillac Lodge 531, Manistee Lodge 1128, Lowell Lodge 609, Higgins Lake Lodge and St. Louis Lodge 1566. The talk and the enjoyable time of getting to know one another was most delightful. And to top off the evening, one of the nicest lunches put on by the ladies of the Moose. There was a little of everything to tempt the taste buds. Pat Brown was the winner of the drawing held at the club.

Don't forget the meeting this coming Friday evening at 8:00 p.m.

Cordially yours, The Mickey Moose Twins, Richard Lippard and Tom Gallagher

ANOTHER FIRST FOR MICHIGAN — In an attempt to decrease shut-down time during repairs on busy Interstate 75 Freeway in the Flint-Bay City area, the Department of State Highways for the first time will use pre-cast slabs of concrete to repair more than 20 pavement blow ups. The slab repair method, developed by the Highway Department's Testing and Research and Maintenance Divisions, consists of cutting out an area of the damaged pavement, lowering the slab of pre-cast concrete into the slot and then sealing the joints. One repair operation can be completed in two hours, compared with the previous method which shut down highway lanes for several days. (Highway Department photo)

Oh, pretty a kite! Well, it's spring, isn't it? And kids all across the country are reviving that ancient art, it seems. Kite manufacturers report sales more than doubling every year. So, what nicer, quieter pastime could we have for a change?

Flour kites wasn't always a innocent pastime, however. During the first 2,500 years of kite history, they were an instrument of war. One story has it that in 200 B.C., a Chinese General flew a kite over the walls of an enemy fort so that he could calculate the length of a tunnel to dig underneath.

History doesn't record whether or not he was successful. But he may have kept the kite as an amusement as he looked down the battlefield. A kite that his army could see from the walls undetected.

Later, kites were used as signaling devices and weapons of psychological warfare. Soldiers attached spooky lanterns and whistles to the kites and flew them over enemy camps at night. Sometimes they attached beacons, also, to lead enemy lines, also.

By the 15th century, many of the kites were developed for use as a wartime observation posts. But these weren't very successful either. Marco Polo reported that only men who were "drunk" could be trusted to ride the danger-laden kites.

At the close of the 18th century, Benjamin Franklin, the great inventor, told about the medicinal benefits of kites. He said, "Kite-flying makes children throw back their heads and open their mouths, thus getting rid of internal heat." If Franklin was right, we sure could use more kite-flying in America these days.

Thought For Food

Hamburgers are great for the grill—but don't forget about ham. You can prepare a whole boneless ham on the rotisserie, slices or the grill or cubes for kabobs. For varied flavor appeal, baste with a favorite sauce.

For variety and flavor appeal, add chopped cooked meat to scrambled eggs as they begin to thicken. Bacon, sausage, ham, luncheon meat, frankfurters or dried beef are appropriate additions.

The wise homemaker uses selections from the meat group to provide nutrition and to vary menus. But other foods should not be forgotten. These foods will provide about the same amount of protein as a 2-ounce serving of meat: 2 jumbo eggs, 1/2 cup creamed cottage cheese, 2 slices cheddar cheese, 1 cup baked beans or 4 rounded tablespoons peanut butter.

For a quick dessert, try sliced peaches a la Melba. Divide 1 can (1 pound) sliced peaches among 4 dessert dishes. Sprinkle each dish with 1 tablespoon coconut. Top each with a scoop of raspberry sherbert.

From Mildred M. Smith, Bethany, Mo.: I wonder if anyone remembers the leach for making lye? I well remember Grandma making lye in a leach. Wood was the fuel used in stoves for cooking and heating. The ashes were carried to the leach and dumped in.

This receptacle was about five or six feet long and shaped like a "V" with a trough at the bottom where the black liquid lye ran out. Water was poured over the ashes every few days to produce the lye, which was mixed with cracklings from rendering lard. Some water was poured in, then boiled until the right consistency. The result was soft soap, which was the color and thickness of honey.

Grandma also made vinegar in half gallon glass jars. A large piece of "mother" was put into each jar, then sugar and water and after a time was very good vinegar.

She also made it with "vinegar bees"—a little round clear, jelly-like particles which were treated much the same as "mother vinegar."

"Nothing gives you more leisure than being right on time."

At this writing, my wife has left me and I am a bachelor father, just like on TV. I am sitting here in my Brut cologne, waiting for the pretty broads to start climbing through the windows.

"You'd better miss me for more reasons than my cooking," my wife said as she headed over the hill to granddaughter's house to say itchy-gitchy-goo.

"I don't expect to miss your cooking at all," I answered. "I watch TV. I know what happens to fathers who must raise their children alone. A blonde model, 40-28-30, knocks at the back door and asks if she can borrow a cup of my libido. When she notices that my 2 kids have their heads stuck in the same peanut butter jar, she insists that I hire her as a cook.

"The kids will urge me to marry this doll, of course. Motherless children always want their fathers to marry pretty girls. But I will refuse. I will explain to the kids that you will probably return some day after your granddaughter grows up. I will not speak ill of you, no matter how bitter I feel inside. I will tell them to not believe what the neighbors say about you. I will urge those little half-orphans to keep a light in their hearts for your return. I will tell them they should stop crying, even if Daddy can't," I said.

"I will be gone 2 1/2 days," my wife said.

"I won't take your portrait off the dehumidifier. The children will recognize you when you return. I promise I won't let them forget you," I promised.

"Good lord," she said. "Goodbye." She has been gone almost 2 days now. Neither of the kids has noticed the difference. They figure she's over at neighbor Shirley Moore's again, discussing the dresses they wore to the senior prom 25 years ago. The kids just keep eating the same old frozen pizza, and I am living on apples.

That sexy cook hasn't come knocking yet but I really don't care. Last night, in my lonely bed, I found a note under the pillow. It said: "I love you."

It really isn't so bad being married to a grandmother. If she'd only hurry home.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

There's a Lesson Here

In the modern context of today's semantics and even deeper political oratory, the good things of life are achieved by liberalism, while conservatism is equated with trials and tribulations and unemployment.

Currently a great deal of the so-called liberal zeal, and the word liberal is used here only in the erroneous practice of the time, is devoted to what is called "consumerism."

Of course a great deal of this clamor is undoubtedly unfeeling to make people unhappy.

On the other hand, there is no question that some sub-standard products are turned out by the nation's factories, and presumably this is due to business greed.

But the announced action some time ago by Henry Ford should be heeded. The Ford people are producing abroad what has become a very popular sport car in this country. The manufacturing has been divided between England and Germany.

But the Ford people found that due to the so-called liberal drivers in the British Isles, the British workman no longer takes an interest in his work with the result that some of this product made in England was showing up with serious defects.

So, rather than put out an inferior product Ford announced production of the car would be ended in England and the entire work done in Germany where apparently the people take pride in their work.

Of course, this sort of thing is not good for the British economy. Neither is a great deal of the inferior workmanship in the United States good for the American economy.

But the liberals who politically espouse the cause of consumers do not mention this fact, because to them nothing is so sacred as labor unionism.

There will probably never be an improvement on consumer goods quality until some of the reforms are made in the labor laws, as supported by the independent business community in polls conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business.

According to estimates, the imports of German and Japanese built cars account for close to 20 per cent of all new cars sold in this country.

You can be sure that Detroit auto makers do not like to lose this amount of business. But neither Japan nor Germany has an extremely liberal National Labor Relations Board which springs into action in response to union overtures any time the American manufacturer takes measures against a worker who is "gooling up" the quality of the product.

Almanack

The Length of Office

By Richard L. Milliken

It appears that Gov. Milliken has put his foot in it -- with a boost from a zealous television reporter.

A short time back, Gov. Milliken submitted to an in-depth interview -- that's one that lasts a half-hour or more, with no set format -- over an educational TV station.

While the governor and his interviewer were roaming around the political rhetoric, Milliken allowed as how, in his opinion, some office holders stayed in office too long; and added something to the effect that many times over a long tenure, the bright-eyed zeal of a newly-elected public official fades into a grim determination to hang on to office, no matter what.

"There are men in public office today who should not be there because they've been there simply too long," Milliken commented in a statement that, in our opinion, is mainly true, but probably is impolitic for a governor to say.

Milliken also commented that he hoped he personally would know enough to step out of the public arena "when the time has come to get out."

The governor mentioned no names, even when asked by his interviewer to be specific about "men in public office today who should not be there" because of tenure.

But, in distributing a transcript of the TV show, the interviewer added a list of his own -- eight members of the Legislature whose age and length of time in office qualify them for legislative pension.

Naturally, the eight lawmakers were a bit upset about the obvious conclusion that they were over-age in grade, to use an old service term. And what with some crucial decisions on various Milliken programs coming up in the legislature, the governor and his staff have been busy trying to smooth things over.

Milliken makes an excellent point, however -- regardless of whether some members of the legislature might feel a rather pinching shoe.

In my experience, I have found that most individuals who run for office the first time do so in a genuine desire to be of service to their community -- whether it is home-town, state or nation. Of course, there are some who just want a job, but most think they have something to offer and do, indeed, try to render a public service.

But then you notice that after a while, some change in their motives for running for just another term... not all, of course, but some.

The old vim, vigor and vitality of serving his fellow man often switches to a mere habit of holding office. In some cases, the veteran office holder still thinks he does a whole of a job when more objective observers would attest otherwise.

A case in point is the venerable John McCormack, who served so many years in Congress and so many years as Speaker of the House. For the last couple of terms, even some of his closest friends were trying to talk him out of running again... and they finally succeeded, to the relief of many and to the concern of practically nobody.

And then there are other office holders whose value increases with age and experience. They seem to grow with the job, so to speak, usually changing their ideas and approaches as the political or governmental scene changes, as it always does.

One case in point here is former State Sen. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, who rose in both public stature and public service almost every term during his long tenure in the Michigan senate.

Another is the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, who achieved the heights of national and international esteem and service toward the end of a long and distinguished career in Washington.

So Gov. Milliken is partly right. There are indeed, men in public office who should not be there because they've been there too long. But tenure by itself is not controlling; rather, it is whether the individual office holder continues to do a good job, or holds office only because of time in grade.

It boils down to this: There are those who grow, and those who simply age.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

TIME & MONEY
Today may be the most important day in your life. It has value because it is NOW, because you have the opportunity to decide -- and to do.

Yesterday belongs to history. It cannot be called back, changed or altered in any way. But, it has left something worthwhile -- the value of experience.

What we accomplish this day can be greater because of yesterday. If we have brought something forward in the way of knowledge, we can guide the efforts of now and gear proper plans for tomorrow. We can do better; we can plan wisely.

Therefore, consider today for what it's worth; tomorrow for what can be. Use time as if it was money, as if it was limited, as indeed it is. Don't spend it foolishly; once gone it never returns again.

1040 Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q Do I have to report interest from U.S. Savings Bonds on my tax return?

A Yes. Interest earned on your Savings Bonds is taxable and must be reported. However, you have the option of reporting the interest each year as the redemption value increases or all at once when the bonds are redeemed, or mature, whichever is earlier. If you elect the yearly method of reporting, you must continue it even for all future bond purchases.

To report the interest from the Savings Bonds, add it to your other interest income, and enter the total on line 14 of Form 1040. If your total interest income is over $100, the amounts and source must be reported on Schedule B, which should be attached to your Form 1040.

Q Because I am suffering from a deficiency disease, my doctor prescribed vitamins for me. Is the cost of the vitamins deductible on my tax return?

A Yes. Items such as vitamins and iron supplements prescribed or recommended by your doctor are deductible as medicines and drugs. Then, to the extent that medicine and drug expenses exceed one percent of your adjusted gross income, they may be included with your other medical expenses. Medical expenses in excess of three percent of your adjusted gross income can then be deducted on your tax return if you itemize deductions. More information on the rules for deducting medical expenses can be found in Publication 502, Deduction for Medical and Dental Expenses, available free from your local IRS office.

Q My son works during the day but is taking college courses at night. May I still claim him as a dependent regardless of how much income he had?

A No, you may not claim him as a dependent if he had income of $625 or more and was 19 years of age or over at year-end, if your child was a full-time student during any part of each of five months of year, you may claim him as a dependent regardless of age or income provided you meet all the other dependency tests. However, if your child is employed full-time during the day and attends school during the night, he is not considered a full-time student.

Q I am married and filing a joint return. My wife had no income last year. Does she still have to sign the return?

A Yes. A joint return must be signed by husband and wife even though only one had income.

Q I'm 65. Do I still have to file a return?

A If you are single and 65 or older you do not have to file a return unless your income was $2,300 or more. If you are married and entitled to file jointly and your combined income is less than $2,900, you still do not have to file. Finally, if your spouse is also 65 or over and you are entitled to file a joint return, you do not have to file unless you made $3,500 or more.

However, you must file a return and pay any tax due if you have net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more regardless of age.

Q Can I deduct the cost of my work clothes on my Federal income tax return?

A Generally, you may not deduct the cost and maintenance of work clothing. However, if your job requires special apparel or equipment as a condition of employment and the apparel is not adaptable for use as regular clothing, its cost and maintenance are deductible. Examples of work clothing whose cost is deductible as employee expenses are uniforms worn by mailmen, nurses, policemen and firemen and protective clothing required for some jobs, such as safety shoes and hard hats.

I read somewhere that "Pro" is the opposite of "Con", as in Progress and Congress.

It is a measure of the stature of this community that its citizens take an interest in such mundane democratic processes as school board elections. As I write this, I have no idea how many will vote and who will "win" — if serving in such a position can be called winning. The candidates were all interesting people, willing to make the sacrifices needed. They made their positions fairly well known, thus giving us all a chance to make a real selection. However, as is always the case, some controversy was caused. In this line I was given a note from a long-time resident and a person knowledgeable in school board matters which should be printed, even though it is too late now to make any effect. It goes like this: "In answer to a few remarks overheard in the last few weeks questioning the integrity of a group of dedicated citizens, your local school board, there is no secret about the architect's fee being charged for the new high school. It is 5.96%. A standard fee charged by such firms. Also, the school site as chosen still seems to be the best site. No apparent deficiencies have come to light since the site was decided on by the Citizen's Committee appointed for the task."

The Grayling Booster Club dinner at the Legion Hall last Saturday was an absolute unqualified success. People were turned away. It would be almost impossible to thank everyone who helped to make this Athletic Fund dinner the great thing it was. This paper is one, the radio station is another, merchants who sold tickets, the volunteer cooks, the members of the basketball team who not only sold tickets, but waited, table, and finally the Legion itself for supplying the hall and other facilities. Some day this community will realize all the causes the Legion supports.

— JP —
Arnie Mauren, Head Medicine Man at Chief Shoppengon's Teepee, has got to be the luckiest man in Grayling. Trout Unlimited had a dinner meeting at his place Saturday and Arnie made a dollar donation to win a prize. He won a fine fly rod. At about the same time he won again at the Booster Club. There ain't no justice.

— JP —
It's nice to see a broad smile, especially a pretty broad.

According to the Environment Action Bulletin, "As if more plastic bottles weren't enough, a Dutch company is making plastic seaweed. It's supposed to keep beaches from eroding."

— JP —
The front page of this paper had a fine story last week about the appointment of Arnold Gilman, 18, to the U. S. Naval Academy. It is something the whole community can take pride in. But Arnold has a bit of a problem. Seems he has to deposit $300 with the Academy officials for various reasons. So the American Legion Auxiliary (here we go again!) is putting on an "Arnold Gilman Recognition Dinner" this Thursday, the 17th, at the Legion Hall. The proceeds will go towards the 300 bucks he needs. Time is 6 p.m., price is $2.50, and tickets are available at the Legion and Mac's Drugs.

— JP —
The Free Press carried the one-liner the other day which I sort of liked. "I heard it was so dry in Florida that some guy saw two palm trees fighting over the same dog."

— JP —
Lastly, many years ago, Jack Pine used to make it a point to welcome back our summer residents and visitors. He does so now. We like to have you here, we hope you have a fine summer, and we will miss you when Fall comes and you are gone. Jack Pine

"MICHIGAN GHOST TOWNS" VOL. II

There are few records of Negroes in northern Michigan, but blacks played an important part in our settlement," writes Roy L. Dodge, author-historian in his new book, "Michigan Ghost Towns," Volume II.

The new edition, a 191-page softback, details what many consider to be the most complete history ever published of the black man's part in the early development of northern Michigan.

Actually, black history is incidental to the real purpose of Dodge's work, which is to relate the location and history of more than 300 additional Michigan towns that sprang up and died during the logging boom that swept the state between 1860 and the early 1900's.

His first volume, under the same title, details ghost towns primarily in the lower part of the state. Volume II deals almost completely with the northern lower peninsula.

The book is available, at $5.00 per copy, through the Amateur Treasure Hunters Association, 300 State St., Oscoda, Mich.

Youth Summer Camp At Wurtsmith AFB

Wurtsmith Air Force Base — Michigan Youth Services, Inc. began its second year summer encampment program here June 14.

The program will run through August 20 and will be followed by weekend reunion programs ending March 3, 1972.

The encampment will bring 300 boys, ages 14 through 17, from a 28-county area in Northern Michigan to Wurtsmith Air Force Base, according to Steve Paslaski, MYS Project Director.

During the summer program, the boys will come in groups of 30 per week for 10 weeks. Beginning Oct. 1 and running through March 3, 1972, each boy will return to Wurtsmith for three weekend reunions. During each stay at Wurtsmith, the boys will have a full schedule of activities with emphasis on recreational, educational, motivational, and inspirational experiences.

Guidance throughout the encampment sessions will be provided by six qualified undergraduate counselors from Central Michigan University supervised by the MYS Head Counselor, Larry Neiderheide, and the MYS Follow-Up Director, Robert Doan, a recent graduate of the Mott Intern Program in Flint, where he received his Master's Degree in Community Leadership.

Neiderheide and Doan participated in the 1970 summer program, as a counselor and Head Counselor respectively.

Michigan Youth Services, Inc. a cooperative community directed, military based venture, was begun in 1970 under the leadership of the Rev. G. John MacDonald of Oscoda and the Hon. Wm. H. McCready, Probate Judge of Isocoe County. Over a nine-week period, nearly 200 youths visited the base in what proved to be a pilot program for several other Air Force installations throughout the country.

Joseph - Stancil Vows Spoken May 29

In a traditional wedding ceremony on Saturday, May 29, Marilyn Sue Joseph became the bride of George L. Stancil. The double ring, candle light ceremony took place at half past seven at the Michelson Memorial Church, with Rev. Paul C. Frederick and Rev. R. C. Puffer officiating.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Joseph, was given away at the altar by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Stancil.

Presiding at the organ was Anemari Stancil, sister of the groom. Selections included contemporary as well as traditional numbers. A vocal duet of Irving Berlin's "Always" was presented immediately before the wedding by Thomas R. Stancil and Arnold Stancil, father and brother of the groom. As the bride couple and clergymen participated in Holy Communion, Arnold Stancil presented a baritone solo of Sigmund Romberg's "One Alone," from "The Desert Song."

The church was adorned with white roses and gladioli, interspersed with baby's breath. Ivory candles completed the decor, enkindled by Richard Joseph, brother of the bride.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of ivory peau de soie with accents of Vietnamese lace. The bodice was trimmed with tiny pearls. The floor length veil was also lace trimmed. A bouquet of white roses and baby's breath, with strands of ivory, completed her attire.

Attending the bride was Nancy Rosenberg, matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Diane Grassman of East Lansing, Gretchen Henig, Lynn Thompson, and Candace Henig, all of Grayling. The bride's attendants wore gowns of ivory linen, with lace trimmed, short puffed sleeves. The empire waists were accented with pink satin ribbons. The bouquets were colonial baskets of blue and white daisies, bachelor buttons, and baby's breath.

The flower girl was Miss Roselyn Millikin. Her dress was of pink linen and similar to those of the bridesmaids, as was her bouquet.

Mrs. L. W. Huntington of Eaton Rapids, grandmother of the bride, was an honored guest at the happy occasion.

Serving the groom as best man was John C. Sorenson of Stevensville. Groomsmen were J. David Blaha, Steve R. DuBois, Randy G. Thompson, and D. Michael Worden. The ushers included William Joseph, Richard Joseph, Arnold Stancil, and Phillip Stancil, brothers of the bride and groom respectively. Geoffrey and Gregory Stancil, nephews of the groom, completed the party as junior ushers.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Officers Club, Camp Grayling. Music was provided by the Stu Bonner Trio of Boyne Mountain resort. Serving as host and hostess were Lt. Col. and Mrs. Clyde R. Borchers. Wedding cake was served by the Misses Kay Dee and Sue Huntington. Punch was served by the Misses Linda Knibbs, Holly Knibbs, and Linda Bjoraker. Attending the guest book was Miss Claudia Henig.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Joseph chose an aqua silk dress, accented with beaded bodice and chiffon sleeves.

The mother of the groom chose a dress of mint green silk with matching full-length coat.

After the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and New England. For her going away attire, the bride wore a black and white silk pantsuit with white accessories. The bride is completing her senior year at Michigan State University, and the groom is a graduate of Central Michigan University. After spending the summer at Lake Margrethe, the couple will make their home in Jacksonville, Fla., where they will be teaching in the Duval County school system.

Guests attending from out of town were from Lansing, Detroit, Mt. Pleasant, Eaton Rapids, Troy, Midland, Traverse City, Charlevoix, Gaylord, Saginaw, Pontiac, Allen Park, Mt. Clemens, Ann Arbor, Hastings, Owosso, Chicago, Ill., Akron, Ohio, Trenton, N.J. and Washington, D.C.
